25th Annual Celebration

Old Settlers' Day

FEBRUARY 22nd

DR. FRANCIS J. VAN HORN

—The Little Giant of the Northwest—

Speaker of the Day

Program and Sports Afternoon

Grand Concert in Evening

The 25th annual Old Settlers' Day celebration at Campbell will be held on Washington's Birthday, February 22nd all day. This day has become the Santa Clara County Rally Day for the coming season of festivities and community picnics, coming just at the commencement of spring.

An attractive program has been prepared for the entertainment of the big attendance that is expected. One of the principal attractions is Dr. Francis J. Van Horn of Oakland, who while at Seattle acquired the title of "the little giant of the Northwest." He is an orator of exceptional power and the committee is to be complimented for their selection. The morning program will begin at ten o'clock.

A basket lunch and reunion picnic dinners will be enjoyed by many at noon the hall committee perfecting plans to furnish hot coffee free to all diners. The afternoon will be full of entertainment for all. Beginning at 1:30 the program will consist of an interesting talk on "Belgium" by Mr. Frank Angell, field secretary for the Hoover commission for the Belgian Relief. This talk will be particularly interesting at this time-in-as much as the Hoover Commission has been dismissed from Belgium by the Germans. Mr. Angell probably has some very good inside information having but recently returned from the relief work there. Other interesting numbers and short talks will be given during the afternoon program.

At two o'clock, the local High School basketball team will meet their permanent rivals, the fast Los Gatos aggregation, in the final game of the season and a most exciting contest is looked for. Immediately following the basketball game the Campbell Athletics will cross bats with the speedy Ark Star nine of San Jose. Manager Bradford promises one of the best ball games ever played on Campbell grounds.

The evening program under the auspices of the Home and School Club will consist of a grand concert given by Miss Bozena Kalas assisted by Josef Halamicek, violinist, Jan Kalas, cellist, and other local talent. This concert is given as a benefit for a piano fund for the new grammar school. All programs of the day will be given in the auditorium of the new school and is a fitting celebration for opening the new "Civic Center".

Club Entertained

Mrs. J. J. Caswell entertained the Johnson Ave. Improvement club Monday afternoon, it being the first annual meeting.

Mrs. H. W. Higbie was re-elected president, with Mrs. Moulton, first vice-president and Mrs. Nelson, second vice-president; Miss Caswell, secretary, and Mrs. Huston treasurer.

After the conclusion of the business meeting Mrs. L. T. Smith, financial secretary of the San Jose Y. W. C. A., was introduced and gave a most interesting exposition of the work being accomplished by the secretaries in charge of the various branches of the work, and the pressing needs of the institution.

To those not directly in touch with the work it is a revelation to learn how much has been done in eight months of real organization and the numerous ways in which a helpful influence is being exercised over young women and girls.

The present campaign for funds is to establish more sleeping accommodations, but especially to install an elevator which will make it possible to rent Schofield hall much oftener; and to complete the budget of expenses for 1917, as the income covers but 70 per cent of the expenses.

Mrs. Smith was accompanied by Mrs. A. E. Dickinson, recording secretary of the association, a sister of Mrs. J. A. Hyatt of Los Gatos road.

Refreshments were served at the close of Mrs. Smith's talk, during which the members asked many questions and the ladies told many items of interest concerning the building and its uses.

Quality stationery at Smith's.

The first Birthday Social for 1917 will be held in the parlors of the Congregational church, this (Friday) evening. The program will be in general of a patriotic nature. Admission 10c.

E. R. Kennedy Buys Big Business

One of the biggest deals consummated in Campbell circles for some time was closed Tuesday when E. R. Kennedy, former manager of the Campbell Realty Company, bought the properties and interests of that company in Campbell. Mr. Kennedy has been a most efficient manager and his business integrity and ability is well established in the county. He will continue the realty and water business and carry several lines of insurance.

We bespeak for Mr. Kennedy every success in his role as proprietor of this big business.

MENTAL HABITS OF DEBT

Summary of the Illusions That Are Often Employed by the Spend-thrift.

These are mental habits of debt, William H. Hamby says in the Saturday Evening Post.

1. An overestimate of income. In mild cases this consists in counting the maximum. If a man is working at $3 a day, he multiplies 26 working days in the month by three, without any allowance for sickness, accident, bad weather or nonemployment. If he is in business he counts the next month on a par with his best month in the past; if in a profession he figures the largest possible number of clients. In the more exaggerated type of debt mind he expects unexpected good luck to add to his regular income.

2. An underestimate of expenses. A tendency to think of the debts separately—and to count them as extraordinary emergencies that won't happen next month.

3. Thinking that if you can afford a thing that costs $20 you can afford a better quality that costs only $5 more—the elasticity of optimism.

4. Considering what we want as absolute necessities that must be supplied at once; but what our creditors want as luxuries to be looked after in 60 or 90 days—or when we get around to it.

5. Thinking more about what we owe our station in life than what we owe our tradesmen. It is easy for the debt-making mind to convince itself that good clothes, a fine variety of good conveniences and a nice home are the wisest sort of investments—even off the other fellow's money.

6. A feeling—when not pushed by creditors—that debt is rather a trivial matter. "Oh, everybody runs accounts. They know I'm good for it. Why worry?" An impression that it is much better to be generous and jolly than prompt and just.

7. In thinking that living in the future means living off the future. There is as much difference between hoping for tomorrow and borrowing from tomorrow as there is between raising a crop and mortgaging the farm.

IF GREAT DEAD CAME BACK

Strong Probability That Their Return to Life Would Not Be an Unmixed Pleasure.

What would happen if the mighty dead of history came back to life being sketched out in the strange adventures of Ralph Blakelock. This painter, of acknowledged genius, after years of detention during which he became "posthumously" famous, is now said to be about to go over the canvases attributed to him and pick out the genuine from the false which have been foisted on the market.

It is not strange, therefore, that we should hear, almost in the same breath, that a plot is afoot to lock him up in the asylum again.

The incident is typical. The world goes ahead and makes its arrangements on the assumption that a dead man, however sincerely mourned, will stay dead. This makes it safe to adulterate his work. Let him come back and everything is upset.

Politicians are forever conjuring with the names of Washington and Lincoln. "If Washington were alive today," we are given to understand, he would warmly echo anything the speaker happened to say.

What would happen if Washington or Lincoln were alive? One of three things. He would endorse the first party, to the wrath of the second; or, endorse the second, to the wrath of the first, or (which is more likely) reject both—to the wrath of both.

Then the rejected party, or parties, would promptly repudiate the national hero and that worthy would find himself in a hall of political missiles against which his high standing and glorious deeds would avail him little; or else (and this, too, is more likely) he would not be attacked openly on account of his high standing, but his adversaries would go around saying behind their hands: "George was a good man in his day, but doesn't it seem to you that the old man is falling a bit?"

The safest plan for dead men, however good and great they may have been, is to stay where they are.—Uncle Dudley, in the Boston Globe.

Making Air Fit to Breathe.

It is only recently that health commissions have studied all the conditions that have to be considered in mechanically counteracting drowsiness and the sore throats we get from being shut up all day in our offices, factories or schools.

Already many important and interesting facts have been brought to light, says the Popular Science Monthly for December. One of the discoveries which will change the beliefs of many of us is that the carbon dioxide exhaled in our breath is practically harmless; it is only when it amounts to quantities eight to ten times the quantity found in the best air that we begin to be uncomfortable. Important work has been accomplished by the Chicago commission on ventilation in determining the exact effects of the humidity, or moisture, of the air upon comfort. They have found that a cold room can be made as agreeable as one that is warm, simply by increasing its humidity.

World's Newest Kingdom

SCENE IN ARABIA

WHAT manner of people constitute the "body politic" of the world's newest kingdom—that of Arabia—forms the subject of a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society. The bulletin is based upon the observations and experiences of one of the society's correspondents, who has spent many years in the near East. Concerning the Bedouins, the nomadic class in Arabia whose extensive camps are scattered over the interior of the great southwestern peninsula of Asia, the bulletin says:

Of the Bedouins and the Fellahs (the settled agricultural class), the former are the more numerous people and by far the more interesting. The Bedouin pities the city dweller because fate has decreed that he must pass his days in the confinement of a house or inclosed city, while the city man congratulates himself on his good fortune in being spared the dangers, inconveniences and exposures that are the lot of the tent-dweller.

The life of the latter is an uncertain one. His tent is homemade, spun and woven by the women of his harem from goats' hair, the accumulation of many years. This tent cloth is waterproof and a good protection against the fierce sun of the desert. It is very portable and serves for many generations. Each camp has its chief, part of whose tent is set apart as a guest room, in which visitors are entitled to three days' hospitality.

Settles Local Disputes.

The chief gives the order to move camp and decides on the new pitch. Local disputes are referred to him for settlement and in the event of his being unable to adjust the matter the disputants must go to the capital and present their case to the emir. This they are slow to do, for it means a long journey and absence from home for an uncertain time, as well as some amount of expense. The chief, too, is responsible for the good behavior of the people in his district and for the return of the tax due from the tribe.

The desert which the Bedouin calls home has to be lived in, crossed, slept on, made one's abode for a time before it can be thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed. The boasting of the Bedouins about the free life they enjoy, and their pity for their city neighbors, confined in their close and dark dwellings, can be excused after a sojourn in their tents. But the desert life is not all honey by any means, for there is not always the danger of attack from the nothing-to-lose and all-to-gain members of society, or the risk of perishing for want of water, or the giving out of one's food without the possibility of being able to replenish the supply?

When traveling through inland Arabia the routine of travel is somewhat arduous. Up with the daybreak and as soon as possible load the camels; ride for some four or five hours; then put down for the first morning meal, which usually consists of dates and water; then off again until late in the afternoon, when a halt is made for the night. Supper usually consists of warm bread, with an onion or dates as a relish. Bread is prepared in as simple a manner as possible. While the coarse flour and water are being kneaded into dough, a large fire is made which provides a good heap of hot ashes. On part of these the flattened dough is laid, then covered with the remainder of the ashes. In about fifteen minutes the dough is sufficiently baked. It is then well beaten to free it from the ashes, broken to pieces and divided among those who from their bags have contributed to the meal.

Etiquette Strictly Regarded. After the evening feast coffee is made by some member of the party and in tiny cups handed round to each one, as much regard being paid to etiquette as if all were assembled in the most spacious guestroom in the largest city in the country.

Conversation never lags, and until late in the evening the men talk, some telling imaginary stories, others reciting impromptu poetry, until, tired out, all except those designated to keep watch roll up in their large cloaks and are soon asleep.

Most of the houses of Arabia are built of sundried bricks; many of them are three stories high, and all have flat roofs. As a rule the interiors are quite devoid of furniture, the coffee roaster, pounder, pots and cups being about all that is visible that savors of daily life and needs. Many of the houses are doorless, accounted for by the scarcity of suitable wood.

Wherever people are found in the Arabian peninsula with the most limited number of milk-giving animals, such as sheep, goats or camels, there will be found the national substitute for the lard of the occident, or the olive oil of other lands, a very favorite production called "semmin." This is a butter which is made in a primitive, simple and unappealing manner by being churned in a skin which has been none too well cured and does not recommend itself for cleanliness. The mode of procedure is simplicity itself, the milk being put into the skin and then either swung backward and forward on a tripod, or rolled to and fro on the ground until the fat of the milk forms itself into butter. A favorite dish to set before the distinguished guest is a mixture of dates and butter.

Throughout Arabia there are many things in common among the Bedouins and the Fellahs, as for example, the manner of clothing among both sexes; little distinction is made between rich and poor, and from a man's apparel it is impossible to get any idea of his social standing.

In all homes it is customary for the host to assume the place of waiting during the serving of food. He takes his meals after all the others have been served.

As in other Mohammedan lands, the women in the cities and towns of Arabia are secluded, but in the village and camp life they enjoy the same freedom as the men; the women, too, do a large share of the work in co-operation with the male members of the family.

Telltale Parrot.

They were sitting close together in the parlor.

He—I gave you that parrot as a birthday present, did I not, Matilda?

She—Yes, but surely, Albert, you are not going to speak of your gifts as if—

He—It was young and could not speak at the time?

She—Yes, and it has never been out of this parlor.

He—There are no other young ladies in this house?

She—No, there are not.

He—Then, why—why, when I kissed your photograph in the album while waiting for you did that wretched bird imitate your voice and say: "Don't do that, Charlie; please don't!"

Cause of the Delay.

First Cook—How do you like it at the Bumps?

Second Cook—No good. I'm cooking breakfast all the time from 8 to 11.

First Cook—You don't say! Why, I always heard that they all got up at the same time.

Second Cook—They do, but it takes them all the way from little Willie's fifteen seconds to Miss Bump's three hours to dress.—Judge.

WEATHER BUREAU IS AID TO FARMER

System for Giving Warnings Has Been Highly Developed.

GIVES PROTECTION TO CROPS

News That Merely Makes the City Man Take an Umbrella May Result in Intense Activity in Agricultural Districts.

Few city people reading Uncle Sam's weather forecasts in their morning papers realize the importance a warning of rain, snow, frost, or high winds may have for the farmer, fruit grower, or stock raiser in the country. The message which causes the city man merely to debate whether he shall carry an umbrella or take his overcoat, when telegraphed to country points may be telephoned instantly from farmer to farmer as news of the greatest agricultural importance. Such a message over the phone may cause the entire countryside to become a scene of intensive activity. There is a rush to hay or grain fields to get in the crop or, in the spring, work like beavers covering young seedlings in the truck gardens with paper or other protection from frost, or preparing to build fires or light smudges in orchards. On ranches every available worker may be dispatched to herd in sheep or stock to protect them from storms. To them the message, which in the city may have foretold only slight personal discomfort, carries tidings of conditions which may mean heavy monetary losses to the unprepared farm or ranch.

On the other hand a forecast predicting good or hot weather for three or four days to come may send thousands of reapers into the fields to take advantage of favorable weather, and, as if by magic, change the landscape from one of waving grain or grass into a scene of haystacks, or wheat sheaves.

Special Systems Perfected.

The United States weather bureau has perfected special systems and facilities for obtaining and disseminating advance weather news adapted to the protection of growers of many special crops in different sections of the country. In connection with the weather reports received from its 200 stations and from 4,500 lower observation points, the bureau has established a large number of special stations for observing crop weather conditions in the corn, wheat, cotton, sugar, rice, and cattle-raising districts. The object of this service is to furnish the growers of each of these crops throughout the summer with information that will enable them to handle the crops to best advantage. The corn and wheat region service covers, for example, the 15 principal grain states, in which it maintains one region center, 13 district centers, and 174 special stations, from which telegrams are received daily and reports disseminated. Daily bulletins showing the temperature and rainfall at these stations are published at 18 different points and distributed to approximately 2,775 different people. Similar services dealing with cotton weather conditions cover the 11 principal cotton states and consist of data gathered in 13 centers through 175 special stations.

The crop weather service is particularly important to alfalfa growers in all the western states and special three or four-day forecasts are issued throughout the season to alfalfa harvesters.

Special Fruit-Region Service.

The special fruit-region weather warning service, which forecasts particularly the coming of spring frosts, is of particular value in the intensive orcharding districts where fruit growers have made preparations by means of smudging or heating or other means to protect their orchards from frost. The orchard forecasts and warnings are principally for the benefit of fruit men of Ohio, Colorado, Utah, Washington, Oregon and California. This service has been expanded by the establishment of seven new stations in the grape and peach-growing districts of northern Ohio and by the detailing of trained men for special duty in the fruit district of the Hood river valley, Oregon, and the Gunnison valley, Colorado. These men study the local situation and give expert information to the fruit growers as to the temperatures to be expected and as to the probable need to light fires in their orchards.

Special rain and temperature forecasts for the sheepmen in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho were made by the district forecaster at Portland, Ore., during the shearing and lambing season of 1916. It is estimated that there are more than 6,000,000 sheep in these states. As winter feeding is expensive, sheep are usually shorn and put on the ranges as early as possible. Early lambing is encouraged also. Before being shorn, if stormy and cold weather prevails, the sheep may succumb to fatigue and starvation, and after they are shorn it is necessary to keep them near natural or artificial protection for a short period if unfavorable conditions prevail. The forecasts enable proper precautions to be taken by anticipating these conditions, and also give information as to favorable weather conditions for several days in advance, so that sheep may be grazed farther away from protection.

Making Glad Waste Places of Earth.

By A. W. DOUGLAS.

Throughout all time the inhabitants of the desert have been men of force and originality both in thought and endeavor. Their civilizations have ever been marked alike by material and mental accomplishments. It was no mere coincidence that this was as true of the Arabs who overran Spain as of the Babylonians who blazed the way of civilization, for their freedom of thought and initiative in action were bred in them by the vastness and solitude of their environment.

So in our times, we are building in our arid regions an empire of irrigation that embodies the spirit of progressive democracy. It is no mere accident that irrigated regions have set the pace in all manner of intelligent agricultural production and distribution. Nor is it by blind chance that in the main the states of irrigation are among the lowest in illiteracy and the source and mainstay today of most of the reforms in our social, economic and political life. For irrigation is that wonderful thing, the creation of life from death, and making glad the waste places of the earth.

"English as She Is Spoke" Not Much Like the English Language, Declares Writer

Spoken American has traveled far from spoken English. The English lift the receiver and mildly inquire: "Are you there?" Americans rattle the handle and cry: "H'lo! H'lo! Who-zis?" The English say: "Rather!" We say "Sure thing!" They "do her in;" we "double-cross her." They tap their foreheads significantly and murmur: "Bahny!" We remark: "No-buddy a-tome!"

And spoken American has traveled even further, Hugh Mearns writes in McClure's. We have no written language. Our print is the English language; our speech is the American. For instance, we must use English letters to indicate the sound of a common American salutation: "Goddam macha bowcha?" (Have you got a match about you?) But, alas, how this crude spelling mangles our smoothly articulated vernacular.

Our language—the American—is no stationary thing. It is on the move; it has characteristic "hustle." We are busy smashing consonants, spilling vowels, crushing whole phrases into a grunt—"Uddia-doon-air?" (What are you doing there?) "Sry." (That is right.) In that respect our development is like the French language during the period of its most rapid advance. Like the French, we have begun to drop our final consonants. A jitney ride costs "fi-cense" (five cents). Our evening vaudeville is "Goonight!"

Like the French, too, we have a marked liaison—the borrowing of a letter from the preceding word. We invite one another to "C'meer." (Come here.) We guess at a hard name and add: "Sumpin nlike at." (Something like that.) If we don't hear distinctly we nudge our neighbor and inquire: "Wah zee say?" (What did he say?) "Hoo-zat?" (Who is that?) has as good a liaison as the French vous avez.

In a few years one may not be astonished to see the great American novel decked out in its own patois. Fancy a page like this:

"Wen-juh gid din?" sez she. "Lass-night," sez he. "Binna way long?" "Munce n' munce." "Howz zee oh town?" "Aw-rye." "Fie nole ciddy," sez he. "Ass-rye," sez she.

Isn't it intoxicating? One's own, one's native speech. To be sure, this is only a faint phonetic reproduction of the great American language—to do it justice would require a special alphabet—but it is "sompin nlike at."

Things That Are New

From a mixture of sugar cane refuse and bamboo fibers a Trinidad planter has succeeded in making a paper equal in quality to the best wood pulp product.

A reel to be attached to an automobile wheel has been invented to enable a lineman to pick up or pay out wire much more rapidly than can be done by hand.

Surgical instruments that are not affected by the presence of electromagnets are being made of a secret steel alloy by a French professor of medical electricity.

The inventor of a new auger bit has made it thick at the edges and thin at the center and claims it will force the chips toward the center and thus avoid clogging.

To prevent the absorption of dampness from the ground by stone buildings a new European practice is to cut slots in the walls and insert asphalt-coated lead plates.

A Wisconsin boy is the inventor of portable equipment to enable a person to connect with any telephone, or telegraph line and either talk over it or use telegraph instruments.

Silk manufacturers in Japan are now receiving, for the first time, orders from the United States for silk neckwear.

Soft-iron castings and forgings can be changed into hard steel by a new electrical process.

Italians are succeeding with experiments in the production of cotton on the oases of Tripoli.

A revolving steel barrel to test the relative durability of paving blocks has been invented.

A rubber bulb to increase the suction features a new siphon for removing cream from bottles of milk.

Fat and Forty.

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON
Commissioner of Health of Pennsylvania.

Forty is an unlucky number for men five feet eight or under if it is the waist measure. Any number above that is equally to be avoided. Overweight is dangerous and is indicative of several things. Either the appetite is not controlled, insufficient exercise is taken or the diet is made up of improperly selected foodstuffs.

If any or all of these things are to blame it is the part of wisdom to seek expert advice and begin the remedy forthwith. To sink into the placid indifference of the fat-and-forty stage is a crime against your health. It means in all probability that the liver and kidneys are overworked and the result of any such strain prolonged is at times fatal.

There is another reason which is worth almost equal consideration. To overfeed undermines one's health. Physical fitness has a distinct bearing on a man's mental attitude and unfitness has also. The man who through neglect and lack of control over his appetite begins to eat himself into an early grave, loses his crispness of thought. The self-respect which every man who achieves things should have for himself as a clean well-groomed animal, is lacking.

Don't weakly excuse yourself if you have unconsciously slipped into this class. Get busy and work yourself out of it before it is too late.

Had Suffered Enough

An old American revolutionary soldier was a candidate for congress, and his opponent was a young man who had "never been to the wars." It was the custom of the old soldier to tell of the hardships he had endured. Said he:

"Fellow citizens, I have fought and bled for my country. I have helped to whip the British and the Indians. I have slept on the field of battle with no other covering than the canopy of heaven. I have walked over the frozen ground till every footstep was marked with blood."

Just about this time one of the voters, who had become greatly interested in his tale of suffering, walked up in front of the speaker, wiped the tears from his eyes with the extremity of his coat-tail, and interrupted him with: "Did you say you had fought the British and Indians?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did you say you had slept on the ground while serving your country without any kiver?"

"I did."

"Did you say your feet covered the ground you walked over with blood?"

"Yes," replied the speaker, exultingly.

"Well, then," said the tearful citizen, as he gave a sigh of pent-up emotion, "I guess I'll vote for t'other fellow, for I'll be hanged if you ha'n't done enough for your country."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Origin of "Humbug"

The word "humbug" had its origin as follows: Among the many times of base coin, made from time to time in Ireland, there was none so worthless as that made by James II at the Dublin mint. It was made of whatever metal was the easiest to get—lead, copper, pewter or brass—and so low was its intrinsic value that 20 shillings of it were worth only 2 pence sterling. The soft mixed metals of which the worthless coin was composed were known to the Irish as "umbug," pronounced "oombog," meaning soft copper or worthless money. Thus the phrase "humbug" originated by a person saying: "That is a piece of umbug." "Don't try to pass off your umbug on me."

From Bad to Worse.

"Well, Jane," said Mrs. DeStyle, impatiently, "haven't you found the ornament for my hair yet?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the faithful Jane, "but now I can't find your hair, ma'am."

A New Remedy for Kidney, Bladder & all Uric-Acid Troubles

Successfully Used by Many Physicians and Surgeons in Their Hospital Practice.

Dr. Weir Mitchell once said: "What we call diseases are only symptoms of conditions. Allow the man's vitality to be reduced to a certain point, and he is ripe for any of these weaknesses, or certain conditions which we call disease."

Thru failure of kidneys to act, thru congestion, inflammation, any person's condition is ripe for disease to fasten its hold upon the system.

At Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., there has been tested for the past few years a new remedy for kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles, rheumatism, gout, and such ailments as follow, and so many cases both acute and stubborn have yielded to this wonderful remedy that Doctor Pierce decided to name it "An-Uric," and arrange for its distribution to the public through medicine dealers everywhere.

If backache, scalding urine or frequent urination bother or distress you, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, gout or sciatica, if you suspect that you have kidney or bladder trouble, write Doctor Pierce, at Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., send a sample of urine, and describe symptoms. A physician and chemist will examine it without charge and you will be under no obligation whatever. These "An-Uric" Tablets cannot fail to help you, because their action flushes the kidneys of impurities and puts strength into them.

Obtain a 50-cent box of these tablets to-day from your druggist here in town. From personal observation in large hospital practice, Doctor Pierce knows these tablets will give you speedy help if you are suffering from uric acid trouble, and to show his sincere faith this prescription is sold under a positive guarantee to any person who has taken a full box and has not been helped.

Recovering Used Rubber.
In a French method of rubber recovery, that of C. de Villers, pneumatic tire covers or other rubber fabrics are placed in a closed vessel containing tetrachlorethane, and this is heated by steam or otherwise. To remove uncombined sulphur, the heating continues only until the sulphur is dissolved, the solvent being poured off before the rubber is attacked. Fresh solvent is kept at the boiling point of the liquid about an hour, when the rubber in turn becomes dissolved. The solution is separated by filter press, when the solvent may be separated and recovered by distillation.

They immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and head clear for months. They work while you sleep.—Adv.

The Anti Scored.
En route to Florida one winter, a young suffragette seated herself in the observation car between two aged "anties," saying as she did so: "A rose between two thorns."
But one of the antis, a crusty old codger with gray whiskers, retorted: "No, no, young lady—you mean a tongue sandwich."

LA GRIPPE—Aches, fever, sore throat, headache, and all the symptoms of the grippe. 25c at all drug stores.

An Objection Noted.
"My boy, don't marry any girl unless she is a good plain cook."
"Oh, but uncle, I've seen lots of cooks who were pretty, too."

Embarrassing Classification.
Me—You know, men want to look on women as angels.
She—But not as recording angels.

SOME SMILES

Similar but Different.
They were meandering slowly toward the parental domicile of the maid, after the theater and a little supper at a swell heanery, when the spirit moved him to do a conundrum.

"Darling," he asked, "why am I like the moon?"
"I don't know, George," she stammered, "but I hope it isn't because you get full."

"No," he answered in a tone redolent with sadness, "it's because I am down to my last quarter."

Universally Known.
"There is one thing," remarked the man who thinks useless thoughts, "that everybody knows."
"And what is that?" asked the party of the dense part.
"Everybody knows that other people make mistakes," answered the useless thinker.

Well Cared For.
"The Grabco children are being given an international education."
"What do you mean by that?"
"They have two French nurses, a German tutor, an Italian music teacher, a Russian dancing master and the representative of an impoverished, but old and aristocratic family, as governess."

Cold Reception.
"Did you have any luck when you asked Dr. Pillar's consent to marry his daughter?"
"None whatever. In fact, he assumed a professional air and prescribed a change of scene in some spot distant not less than 1,000 miles from his domicile."

Retort Courteous.
Tenant (angrily)—I'm going to move the first of the month. That house of yours ain't fit for a hog to live in.
Landlord (calmly)—Ah, I see. So that is why you are going to move, eh?

The Sequel.
"What's going on around here?"
We asked Chief Rain-in-the-Face.
"Ump!" answered the chief, "Indians have big meeting. After meeting, have dog feast."
"Yes, verily," we answered, "after the pow-wow comes the bow-wow."

Unpardonable Error.
Mrs. Upson—Is your new neighbor a society woman?
Mrs. DeSwell—Mercy, no! Why, she actually calls the kitchen maid a hired girl.

The Exception.
Miles—The Chinese claim to have invented nearly everything.
Giles—Well, judging by the way in which they wear their hair, they didn't invent football.

Pertinent Query.
"Actions speak louder than words," quoted the moralizer.
"So they say," rejoined the demoralizer, "but did you ever try to make your wife believe it?"

Vast Resources of Siberia Are Unrivaled in Old World
Siberia is destined one day to become the richest country in the world, for it has a natural wealth so diversified, and as yet almost untouched, that it has no rival in the old world. How vast this wealth is is described by A. Kammer in La Nature.

Before the war Siberia was producing from 1,000,000 to 1,300,000 tons of flour a year. As a grazing country it has no limits and it exports large quantities of leather, tallow and butter. Its forests are almost inexhaustible and it supplies furs to all the world.

Its mineral wealth can only be guessed at, for the greater part of the country has never been prospected. But there are several enormous deposits of oil, that of Konznets embracing about 30,000 square miles and estimated to contain 920,000,000 tons of oil; that of Irkutsk, estimated to contain 250,000,000 tons, and those of the Ienisseisk and Stempalatinsk. Some of these have as yet scarcely been touched.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down."

A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads. —Mrs. NELLIE FISBACK, 1521 Christy A., Louisville, Ky.

Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free.

Ask the Kid's Mother.
Willis—That new baby of mine is the smartest kid in the world.
Gillis—That's what they all say. You can't prove it.

Willis—I sure can. If you don't believe me, just ask the kid's mother and grandmothers.—Puck.

IF YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED
Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children need to be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.—Adv.

UGH! A DOSE OF NASTY CALOMEL

It salivates! It makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.—Adv.

BEGINNING OF OUR NAVY
Camden Yards on the Delaware the Original Birthplace of Warships and Merchantmen.

Sale of the big shipyard at Camden centers all eyes again upon the Delaware as the birthplace of American navies and merchant marine.

It was in this city that Joshua Humphreys, born out at Haverford, designed and built the original warship for independent America. That work was done in the Continental shipyard, this city, at the very outset of the revolution.

This constructor of our first navy was ordered to build and equip a fleet of war vessels, and they sailed in 1776. Years later, when Washington was president, congress ordered the construction of America's first real navy.

Joshua Humphreys was again commissioned to design these warships, and it was then that "Old Ironsides" officially the Constitution—the President, the United States, the Constitution and the Congress were designed.

When Humphreys was a very old man somebody gave him a can made from wood taken from "Old Ironsides," and the octogenarian constructor then told how he had designed our first navy "under the administration of the ever-memorable Washington."

But one dreadnaught such as built in the Camden yard just sold could sink Humphreys' entire fleet with as much ease and immunity from injury to itself as a lion could crush a rabbit.—Girard in Philadelphia Ledger.

Doctors Prescribe It for the Skin

In our file of reports, covering a period of twenty years, literally thousands of physicians tell how successful the Resinol treatment is for eczema and similar skin troubles. The first use of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap usually stops the itching and burning, and they soon clear away all trace of the unsightly eruption. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap contain nothing that could injure or irritate the tenderest skin. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

More Buddha Bones Discovered.
The excavations now being carried on by the archaeological survey in India among the miles of ruins in the Rawalpindi district, famous in the time of Buddha as the principal university town in India, have resulted in the discovery of a casket containing bones with an inscription indicating that they are those of Gautama himself, says a bulletin of the Japan society.

This is the fourth find of the kind. The first was upon the borders of Nepal many years ago, the second near Peshawar in 1909, and the third later. The fact that these relics have been found in widely separated localities supports the accepted story that after the cremation of Buddha the bones were distributed among his disciples and carried by them to a number of distant places.

One Kind of Cleverness.

"Yes. Where he shows his cleverness is by getting out again."—Washington Star.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet
Try this yourself then pass it along to others. It works!

Ouch! ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.—Adv.

Vast Wealth Wasted.
The extent of the waste which has attended the lumber industry of this country is just being appreciated and efforts are being made to correct the matter. Proprietors of many of the largest sawmills are installing special apparatus to save material which was formerly wasted or sent to the burner.

The price of paper has risen so greatly since the outbreak of the European war that paper pulp manufacturers are becoming more and more interested in the utilization of wood waste. When it is realized that more wood is wasted than actually utilized in our great lumber industry, which uses 40,000,000,000 board feet a year, it is seen that there are great opportunities to save this waste. Over 300,000 cords of slabs, sawdust, edgings and other mill waste were used for making paper pulp last year.

History of Ancient Tribe Found.
Rare manuscripts continually are being unearthed from unexpected places and from places where their very existence had been forgotten. The latest such discovery reported is that of 85 folio sheets, written in the seldom-found language of the Mosetene Indians, an ancient tribe that formerly inhabited Bolivia.

The discovery was made when cataloguers were going over the private library of Don Donato Lanza of La Paz, Bolivia, which was purchased a year ago by the Northwestern library at Chicago.

The sheets were written by Benigno Bibobetti, a sixteenth-century monk, who labored among the people of South America during his time, and who has left practically the only authentic records concerning the Indians of Bolivia.

Once a year, in the New Year's Gazette, appears a long list of tradesmen who are holders of royal warrants. This list at the present time exceeds 1,200 names. Since the death of Queen Victoria considerably over three hundred names have been added.

It is a privilege greatly coveted and much envied—this of the royal warrant, for it is not one lightly bestowed upon every tradesman who has supplied goods to his majesty's household. It is distinctly a mark of royal favor, and to some extent a testimonial to the excellence of the purveyor's goods.

Our Pioneers

Hail, all hail to the Pioneers!

The men who have made our state,
Who travelled from far off countries
With the key to the Golden Gate.

The Pioneer Mothers! God bless them
For the part they took in the fray!
The Native Sons and Daughters
Shall arise and bless them today.

With their oxen and prairie schooners,
They put their trust in God,
And bravely traversed the barren wastes,
O'er leagues of land untrod.

Now, cars for sleeping, cars for smoking,

Cars where one may dine,
Flash o'er the oxen trail
They blazed in forty-nine.

They have made our land a garden,
Those pioneer men of old,
Who answered from round the planet
To the call of the garrulous gold.

Our harbors teem with commerce,
Our towns are marts of trade;
For they founded wealth compellers,
Outside the pick and spade.

Hail, all hail to the Pioneers!
God bless their silvery hair.

They have made for us our Golden
State
By their courage to do and dare.

Hail, all hail to the Pioneers,
To the Fathers and Mothers too,
Who, risking all, with faith in God,
Built better than they knew.

Clara Beebe Baldwin.

WHILE Germany is so anxious to have her way about the prosecution of her war measures regardless of the neutrals that have remained with difficulty it might be well for President Wilson to inform the Kaiser that we have decided on a ten year embargo against German made products. Such a retaliatory measure might have a tendency to bring the Emperor to see what a good patron Uncle Sam has been in the past. Whether or not such a National move could or would be made, Germany will awaken to the fact, after the war, that "Made in Germany" has ceased to be a popular slogan in Uncle Sam's dominion and "Made in America" will be as it should be the demand of all patriotic citizens. Our own manufacturers and labor must be upheld.

THREE masked bandits held up and bound five men and blew two safes Tuesday morning at the Peninsular Railway offices and made a haul of $590. This comes as a decided blow to the Interurban line owing to the already depleted condition of the treasury caused by the jitney lines. Not only does it hit the Company but the Company's patrons at Campbell and community will also suffer for some time to come. This tidy sum was the nest-egg begun for the purpose of constructing the new bridge across Los Gatos creek near Campbell where the patrons must now continue to dismount and walk across the county bridge. A little timely patronage at this season will help rebuild that nest-egg and get the bridge the sooner.

THE APPELLATE COURT at San Francisco upheld the sentence of Antone Fodera to five years in San Quentin rendered by Judge W.
A. Beasley. This was, as shown in the trial, a case of gross neglect to render assistance after running down and killing one boy and seriously injuring another. This case is another big feather in District Attorney Free's bonnet as the fight was a hard one, the defense even going so far as to call on Supreme Judge Melvin of San Francisco as a character witness.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 12th, the 108th anniversary of the birth our Nation's Savior, Abraham Lincoln was very fittingly observed in shadow of this martyred president never grow less and his immortal words "with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right," ever be the rule and guide of this great American people.

Of Some Importance

It may be of interest to you to know that the management of the Columbia Hospital of San Jose in their search for a source of milk supply chose our plant as the one whose sanitary conditions were unimpeachable.

We feel that this is no small compliment to us, when we consider the care that it is necessary for the management of this institution to exercise in choosing the food supply for all their patients.

That which is used to build up one's strength while in the Hospital will also do wonders toward keeping one from under the Doctor's care.

Moral!—Drink more milk, and get it from—

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
